

1 TAKAHASHI Yoshihiko playtime

Exhibition Room 3 [3F]

2021.3.6 [Sat.] ▶ 2021.6.22 [Tue.]

Takahashi Yoshihiko (b. 1958) produces works using a variety of methods, based on properties and textures of glass intuited in his practice. In his hot work especially, smooth surfaces and flexible forms capitalizing on the motion of melted glass make for pieces of enigmatic appeal that in their sheer tactility inspire the viewer to flights of fancy. This exhibition takes a close up look at the fascinating work of an artist eminently skilled at coaxing out the myriad aspects of glass.

4 Thirty Years of Toyama Institute of Glass Art Forms for the Future

Exhibition Room 1-3 [2,3F]

2021.10.23 [Sat.] ▶ 2022.1.23 [Sun.]

The Toyama Institute of Glass Art (TIGA) was founded in 1991 as a major step in the city of Toyama's efforts, which have continued for thirty-five years, towards glass-focused community development. Since then, TIGA has trained about 540 graduates, as of the end of March this year. This exhibition commemorates the thirty years since the institute's founding with an exhibition of the work of its faculty members, from Japan and overseas, who have worked so hard to educate their talented students, and of its graduates, who are engaged globally as glass artists. This fascinating exhibition of richly expressive and utterly superb works offers a preview of the future of glass as an art form.

5 Kirstie Rea (tent.) Kirstie Rea: The Breadth of Stillness

Exhibition Room 1-3 [2,3F]

2022.3.11 [Fri.] ▶ 2022.6.26 [Sun.]
12 [Sat.]

Australian artist Kirstie Rea's exploration of 'our sense of connection to place' is based on her own wanderings and wayfinding beyond city limits where she surrenders herself to the stillness of landscapes. Such 'fieldwork' experiences inform and permeate her artworks. This solo exhibition, her first in Japan and the largest in scale to date, introduces her most recent work and traces the trajectory of her art over a 35 year period through glass sculptures, photographs and installations.
